

Overview of Java Web Server on C-series Controllers

The SRC software on a C-series Controller includes a Java Web server for demonstration purposes. The Web server is not supported for use in production environments. Use a Web server that runs on another system to deploy Web applications to be used with the SRC software.

The Web server listens on port 8080. It can be accessed through the eth0 or eth1 interface.

