

Device Identification for the SRX 210 Services Gateway

The domain name defines the network or subnetwork to which the SRX 210 services gateway belongs. The hostname refers to the specific machine, while the domain name is shared among all devices in a given network. Together the hostname and domain name identify the device in the network.

- Related Topics
- SRX 210 Services Gateway Basic Connectivity Overview
 - Root Password for the SRX 210 Services Gateway
 - Time Zone and System Time for the SRX 210 Services Gateway

